On 25 and 26 June 1953, the west section of the Chemnitz-Ebersdorf installation was still occupied by a hospital. The permanent occupation of the installation was about 400 soldiers and included guard personnel, drivers and medical personnel. It was inferred from lighted windows that the building was about 50 percent occupied. On 25 June, trucks were engaged in drivers training in the barracks yard. Sentries at the gate were red-bordered black epaulets. Sedan [REDACTED] entered the installation. The east section of the barracks installation quartered a guard detail of about 40 soldiers who were red-bordered black epaulets. The quarters facing the site were almost vacant. Sentries on duty around the installation had apparently the same uniform.
